Volume 47:2

The Gateway to the Americas

Aaron Klein, Editor-in-Chief¹

PRACTITIONER ARTICLES AND STUDENT NOTES/COMMENTS

The University of Miami Inter-American Law Review has a special place at the University of Miami School of Law. As the city of Miami is internationally recognized as the “Gateway to the Americas,” both the journal and the law school represent the important union between the United States and the Americas. The University of Miami Inter-American Law Review continues to dedicate itself to providing a scholarly forum to discuss major international and inter-American legal developments. Volume 47:2 (Summer 2016) touches on a variety of issues: the Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation between the United States and Brazil; the Universal Declaration of Human Rights; the Rio 2016 Olympic golf course; human rights concerns for Cuban baseball players looking to join Major League Baseball teams; the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and United States v. Esquenazi; Koibel v. Royal Dutch Petroleum’s presumption against extraterritorial application; and Argentina’s national jury system.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The University of Miami Inter-American Law Review owes many acknowledgements and thank yous for the production of Volume 47:2. First, we would like to thank our staff editors, who perform all of the foundational work for the Review. Our staff editors have worked tirelessly across multiple language barriers and have been extremely resourceful in locating hard-to-reach sources. Without this dedication, our publishing would not have been possible. In addition to the staff articles, our sincerest regards are due to the 2015–2016 Executive Board and the Articles and Comments editors, all of whom have made tremendous sacrifices in their academic and personal lives for this publication. Next, we would like to thank Professor Keith Rosenn, our faculty advisor and resident expert on Latin America. We also thank Gloria Garcia, our administrative assistant, for her tireless work ethic and constant communication with both myself as well as the rest of the Inter-American Law Reviews’s staff.

Additionally, the University of Miami Inter-American Law Review is extremely grateful to Janet E. Stearns, Dean of Students, who has been instrumental in the Review’s success. We would also like to thank Patricia White, Dean of Miami Law, for her continuous support of student-run publications. Our Review is also heavily indebted to Emily Horowitz, Assistant Director of Academic Affairs & Student Services and Special Advisor to the Law Reviews, who has supported us with patient guidance at every step of publication. Finally, we thank all faculty members at the University of Miami School of Law, who continue to provide us with academic and moral support.
